Exhibit List for Family Court

A blank exhibit list: a caption block, then one row per exhibit with its number, a neutral description and its date, and two columns to mark what happens at the hearing. Every line is a blank or a [placeholder]. If your court has its own exhibit list form, use that form instead.

Your court's form and rules come first. Many courts set the form, the numbering (numbers or letters for each side), the number of copies and the deadline for an exhibit list, often in a pretrial or scheduling order. Check your order, your local rules or the clerk's office before you use this layout, and consult a licensed attorney where you live if you can.

How to use it

- Replace everything in [brackets] with the wording on your own court papers.
- One row per exhibit. Describe what the item is, with its date range and page count, not what you think it shows.
- Use the numbering your court sets. Keep the same number on the exhibit itself and on this list.
- Leave Offered and Admitted blank on the copies you hand in, unless your court tells you otherwise. Mark them on your own copy during the hearing.
- Note the date and method if you give the list to the other side.

[COURT NAME]
[County, district or division, if your court uses one]
Case No. [_____]
[Petitioner name], Petitioner, and [Respondent name], Respondent
[PETITIONER'S / RESPONDENT'S] EXHIBIT LIST
Hearing: [type of hearing] Date: [_____]

No.	Description (what it is, pages)	Date(s)	Offered	Admitted

Submitted by: [your full name], [petitioner / respondent] Date: [_____] Signature: _____

Given to the other side on [date] by [method]: _____

Exhibit list, continued

Case No. [_____] Page ____ of ____

No.	Description (what it is, pages)	Date(s)	Offered	Admitted

General template for organizing your own information. It is not legal advice and not a court-approved form. Court rules and required forms vary by state and county, so check your court's local rules and self-help center. Custody Commander is optional self-help software: Evidence Helper keeps each file with its date and description and exports a numbered list of your files. It does not choose your exhibits, review your list or file it. Free plan with no card, or try Full Suite free for 7 days; see custodycommander.com for current trial and pricing terms.