Parenting Time Tracker 2026–2027: Scheduled vs Actual Overnights

For each night, write the parent the schedule says (scheduled) and the parent the child actually slept with (actual), as A or B. The totals compare the two for each month and each year. Arithmetic only: follow your own order or agreement.

Key

A =
B =
The schedule, as your order or agreement words it
Night 1 of the rotation (if it repeats)
Exchange day, time and place
Holidays and school breaks

Read this first

- Scheduled is what your order, parenting plan or written agreement says for that night. Actual is where the child really slept. Use the same letters for both: A or B.
- Mark nights, not days. How overnights are counted can differ by order or court; your order or local rules control.
- Fill in the actual column the same day or soon after, from your own calendar, texts or exchange log. Leave a night blank until you know.
- Use the note column for short facts: an agreed swap and the date it was agreed, a holiday, a make-up night. Leave out opinions.
- The totals are arithmetic only. This tracker doesn’t say what the numbers mean for child support, custody or anything else, or how a court decides. For advice about your situation, consult a licensed attorney where you live.

Example: part of February 2026

A 2-2-3 rotation from Monday, January 5, 2026, with one swap, its make-up night and one other agreed change. In the whole month, scheduled A 14 and B 14; actual A 13 and B 15; difference A –1, B +1; 3 nights differ. The spreadsheet’s Example sheet has the whole month.

Night	Scheduled	Actual	Note
Thu Feb 12	A	A
Fri Feb 13	B	A	Swap agreed by text on Feb 10
Sat Feb 14	B	B
Sun Feb 15	B	B
